A letter from United States Senator Mason, after due investigation into the Harper's Ferry difficulty, says there was no insurrection in any form whatever on the part of the inhabitants of that town or vicinity. The fact is undoubted that not a man, black or white joined the invaders after they came to Virginia, or gave them aid or assistance to Virginia, or gave them aid or in any form. So far as can be discovered, not one of the nineteen escaped. Not a slave escaped or attempted to escape; being but a tumult of the few carried off by Cook across the river, all escaped from him and came safely back, but one, who it appears, was drowned while crossing the river homeward bound
